ON THE COVER

These are the two men who will lead the University of North Carolina basketball team through the 1955-56 season, Coach Frank McGuire and Captain Jerry Vayda. Both are entering their fourth season with the Tar Heels, Vayda being McGuire's first recruit since coming here from St. John's. For more details on both men see other sections of this brochure.

Head Coach

Frank Joseph McGuire

Amiable Frank J. McGuire will be seeing his fourth, and possibly best, Carolina basketball squad this season. He succeeded Tom Scott as head coach here in 1953, and will be trying this season to rebound from the only losing season in his career, 10-11, in 1954-55.

In his three years as head coach here, Tar Heel teams have won 38 games and lost 31. That's far shy of his goal. He has been building.

The hefty Irishman is intent on taking his Tar Heels down the road to records that will jibe with his accomplishments as a coach elsewhere.

He came to UNC from St. John's in Brooklyn after guiding his team there to the finals of the NCAA championships, where to lose to Kansas. In his five years at St. John's, his teams compiled the brilliant record of 106 wins against only 36 losses. Four McGuire-coached teams went to NIT events, and two to the NCAA.

Previous to taking the St. John's post, he had coached at Brooklyn's Xavier High school, where he had earned letters in three sports as a student. He continued to star in basketball and baseball after matriculating at St. John's.

His coaching career was interrupted by Navy duty, and during that time he spent several months in Chapel Hill. He formed many local friendships then, increasing that number greatly since coming here as coach.

McGuire's attributes as a coach go far beyond his knowledge of the game of basketball.

While his job is producing winning basketball teams, and he likes to do his job well, his geniality, good nature and thoughtfulness are not impaired by the pressures of his profession. His office in Woollen Gym is always open to friends to come in and "just chat a while," and he always has a cheery word of greeting for acquaintances.

This trait, plus his straight-forward, frank expression of ideas, has put him in great demand as a speaker for athletic organizations, and has made him popular with alumni and friends of the University. He commands the respect and admiration of players, fellow coaches, and basketball fans in general.

He was born in Manhattan on November 8, 1914. He is married and has two daughters and a son. He and the attractive Mrs. McGuire live on Oakwood Drive in Chapel Hill.

Foy Roberson, Jr. Memorial Award

The Foy Roberson, Jr., Memorial Medal is awarded each year by the late Dr. and Mrs. Foy Roberson in memory of their son, Foy, Jr., Class of 1940, varsity basketball 1938-39-40. He was a Second Lieutenant of the Army Air Corps and was killed in a collision at sea on December 21, 1941.

The Medal goes to the player chosen as having made the chief contribution to team morale and sportsmanship.

Past winners:

1943—George Ennis McCachren
1944—Jack Fitch
1945—James Jordan
1946—Robert Paxton
1947—James D. White
1948—Taylor Thorne
1949—Daniel Nyimicz
1950—John Tsantes
1951—Charles Thorne
1952—Harold Deasy
1953—Vince Grimaldi
1954—Jerry Vayda
1955—Jerry Vayda

Freshman Coach

J. A. (Buck) Freeman

Teaming with Frank McGuire to give North Carolina an outstanding pair of basketball coaches is James Ambrose (Buck) Freeman, one of the best in the business.

Freeman was head coach at St. John's when McGuire was starring there as an undergraduate, and has held coaching positions at Scranton University and with the Scranton professional team. He was also freshman coach at Long Island and it is his great ability to work with young boys that has made him of such great value to Carolina basketball teams.

He has been successful in the banking business, and has served in athletic directorships, and other important athletic positions. He has carried his business systems into one phase of basketball. His orderly files, with tabs on the squad's every activity, cover every phase of instruction on the game, player details, scouting reports, movies, and other valuable data.

Prospectus

The three years that Coach Frank McGuire said he needed to rebuild Carolina's basketball program have passed and the buds are apparently about to bloom.

Seven lettermen will return this winter, including brilliant Lennie Rosenbluth and Jerry Vayda, and they will be bolstered by five members of last year's frosh team—the most outstanding Tar Baby squad in the University's history.

Other lettermen returning include Cary Clark, Hilliard Greene, Gerry McCabe, Tony Radovich, and Bob Young. But the highly promising newcomers may make some of the veterans move aside.

Brightest of the newcomers should be handsome Joe Quigg, a towering giant who stands 6-9. He played only one semester with last season's frosh crew, but finished with a 20-point-plus average and topped the team in rebounds while he was playing.

He will work at the pivot post, allowing Rosenbluth, a third-string All-American last season, to go roaming elsewhere.

Also prominent in the Tar Heel plans are Pete Brennan and Tommy Kearns.

Brennan, a 6-5er, topped last season's Tar Babies in scoring and rebounding, taking over the lead in both departments when Quigg retired at midterm. He moves well, has a variety of shots and has proved himself capable of playing first-class basketball.

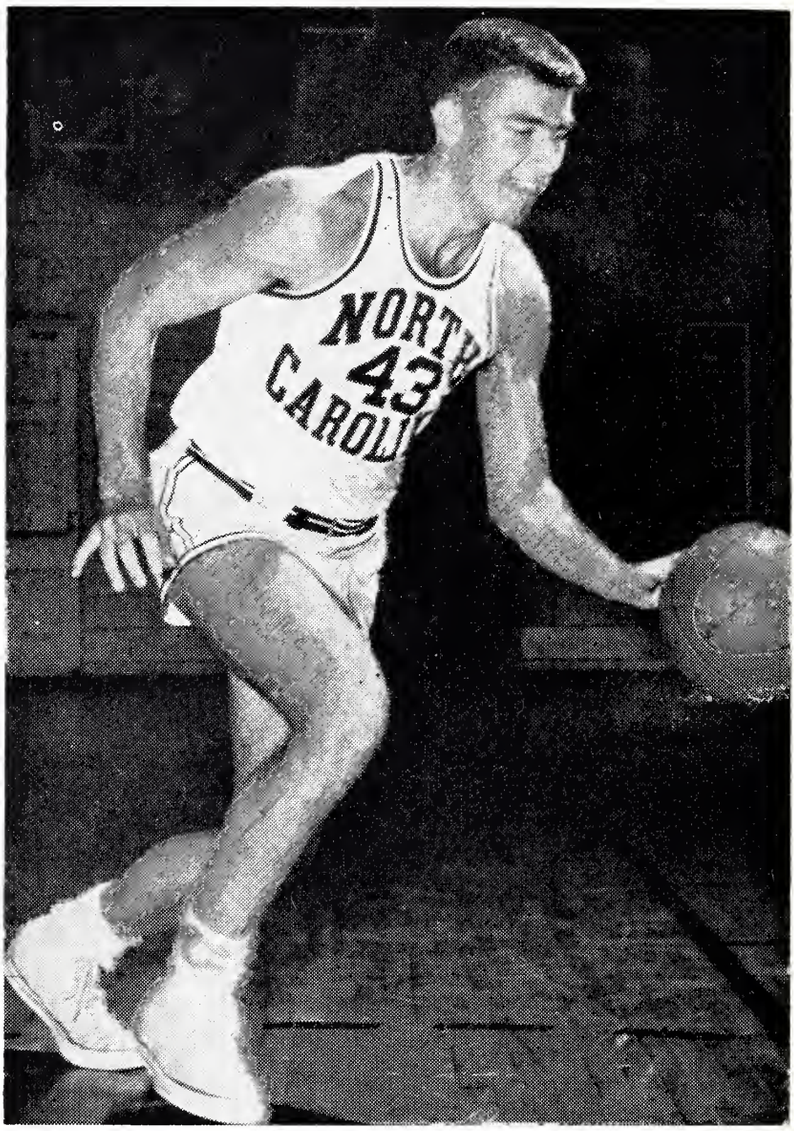
Kearns will be the team's little man. He stands only 5-10, but is exceptionally fast and tricky. His ball handling is probably the best on the club. Like Quigg and Brennan, he finished out last season with a better than 20-point average.

The other additions to the squad will include Bob Cunningham, Roy Searcy and Ken Rosemond. Cunningham got off to a slow start with the Tar Babies because of an ankle injury, but came along as the season progressed. Searcy, a North Carolina boy, added considerable scoring punch after the loss of Quigg.

Rosemond was not a member of the last year's Frosh squad, but is just out of military service. Although standing only 5-9, he was impressive during early training.

The improved Tar Heels will also play a stepped-up schedule. U.N.C.'s home card will feature Alabama, Louisiana State and William and Mary, in addition to the seven other Atlantic Coast Conference teams.

Captain Jerry Vayda



For the past three seasons, Jerry Vayda has been a Tar Heel leader in every sense of the word. He has been one of the team's top scorers, rebounders and playmakers. This year, however, he really takes over leadership of the team as its designated captain.

Vayda, a senior from Bayonne, N. J., played varsity basketball as a freshman and has been giving a sparkling performance ever since. He scored 301 points as a frosh for an 11.1 average that ranked him fourth among the team's scorers. He followed up that season with 357 points his sophomore year for a 17-point average and the team's scoring title.

Last season, Vayda continued his string of impressive performances by scoring 307 points. His average was 14.6, second only to Lennie Rosenbluth, whose 25.5 average established a new University record.

With those three fine seasons behind him, Vayda is in excellent position to break the University's all-time career record of 1,322 points established last season by another outstanding player from New Jersey, Al Lifson. Vayda's total now stands at 965 points, 357 under Lifson's mark.

Lennie Rosenbluth

In two short seasons, Lennie Rosenbluth has developed into one of the most impressive basketball players Carolina has ever produced. This season he is expected to show even more improvement and to rank himself among the nation's outstanding basketballers.

Rosenbluth, a 22-year-old athlete from The Bronx who now calls Greeneville, Tenn., home, began his Carolina basketball career in impressive fashion by scoring 627 points for his frosh team, thereby breaking all previous high scoring marks for a single season by either a varsity or freshman player. His 26.1 average for his freshman season was also higher than any other previous average for one season by a varsity or freshman player.

Last season, his first with the varsity, Rosenbluth continued his fine play. He scored 536 points for a 25.5 average that ranked him 12th among the nation's big college scorers and gave him All-Atlantic Coast Conference and Third String All-American berths. The 6-5 athlete now holds the following Carolina varsity records:

FORWARDS

35—PETE BRENNAN, Soph., 19, 6-6, 190, Brooklyn, N.Y. May be starter because of smooth work under the basket on both rebounding and scoring potential . . . One of sparkplugs of last season's great frosh team as he averaged better than twenty points a game . . . Was top scorer in Brooklyn High school league as a prepster . . . Will put up real battle for starting position . . . Standing 6-5, his specialties are tap-ins and a deadly turning-jump shot.

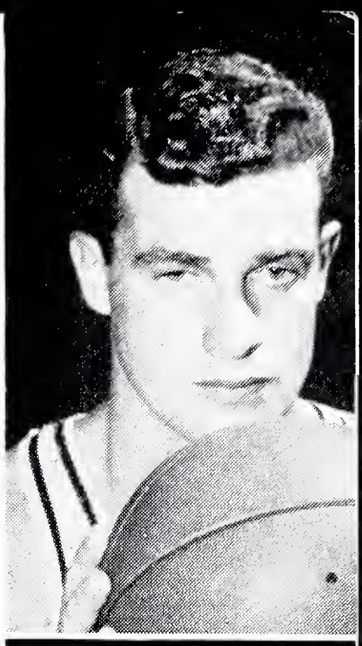
42—HILLIARD GREENE, Sr., 27, 6-5, 192, Zebulon, N.C. Although not a starter last year, saw action in over half UNC's games . . . Was leading scorer with Chowan Junior College in pre-Carolina days, and is a scoring threat . . . Adds height to Tar Heel bench.

22—ROY SEARCY, Soph., 19, 6-4, 185, Draper, N. C. Had good year as freshman after leading his Draper High school team to Class AA championships for two years . . . Greensboro All-Star game graduate . . . Consistent floor man with a deadly one-hander . . . Will be in running for starting berth.

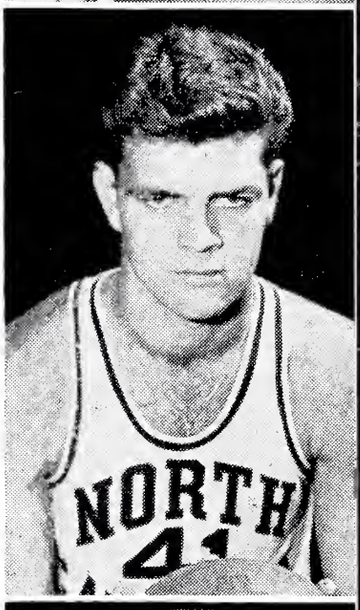
33—GERRY McCABE, Sr., 21, 6-3, 179, Bronx, N. Y. In his third season as varsity player and is expected to lend considerable strength to Tar Heel bench . . . Played in even dozen games as a junior . . . One of club's top hustlers and possesses a neat one-hander from all angles . . . Should come into his own as a senior.

CENTERS

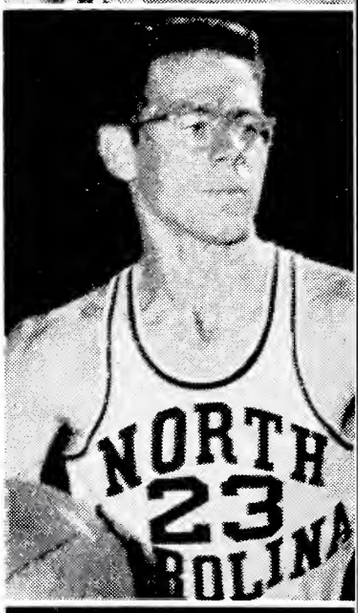
20—BOB YOUNG, Jr., 20, 6-6, 200. Queens, Long Island. A starter last year, and should find himself again with the top five . . . At 6-6, he is strong rebounder and follow-up man . . . Averaged 6.6 points per game last year, and was among top men under the boards . . . Well built and strong.



41—JOE QUIGG, Soph., 19, 6-9, 205, Brooklyn, N. Y. Tallest man on the squad and should develop into one of the school's finest courtmen . . . Was one of top three scorers on frosh team last season, averaging better than twenty points per game, along with Brennan and Kearns . . . Tough to handle under the boards because of height . . . Has beautiful hook shot and is strong on tip-ins . . . Definite contender for starting berth, and could be real standout of club . . . Had fabulous prep school record and entered UNC at mid-term of 1953-54 season . . . Held out of varsity competition last year and played only half the frosh season . . . Should be ready for good year.

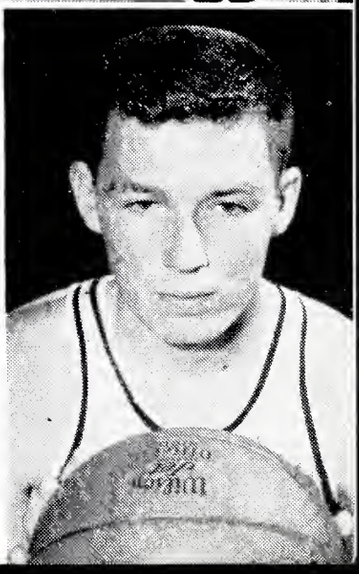


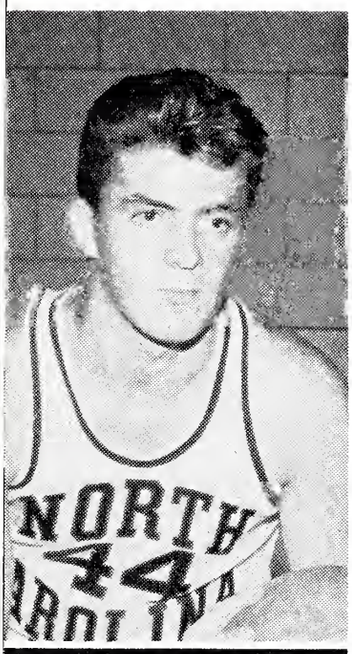
23—BUDDY CLARKE, Jr., 20, 6-3, 175, Louisville, Ky. Saw limited service as a soph, but should be ready for more action this season . . . Is quick and alert and shows real promise of developing into scoring and rebounding threat before end of college career . . . Was one of top performers on his freshman team.



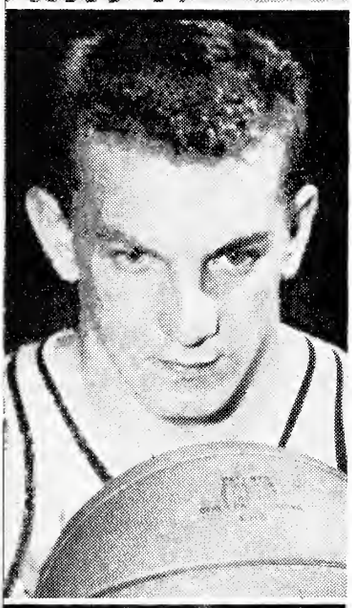
GUARDS

32—BOB CUNNINGHAM, Soph., 19, 6-4, 190, New York, N. Y. An aggressive and speedy guard . . . Fairly tall for that position, but handles himself well on floor . . . Especially hard to stop on driving lay-ups . . . Was one of top men on great 1954-55 frosh team after having fine record at All Hallows in New York . . . Possesses great finesse in ball-handling, and height plus long reach give him good chance to make first club.

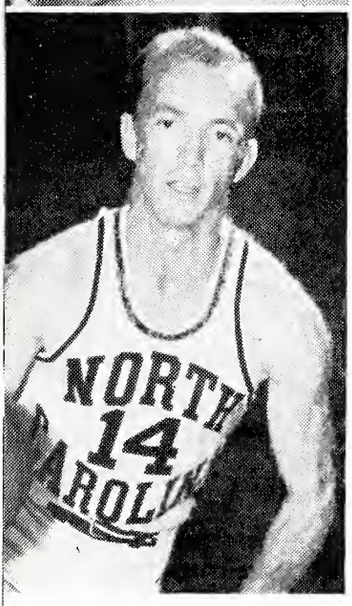




44—TONY RADOVICH, Sr., 22, 6-2, 192, Hoboken, N. J. Has what is probably best eye on squad . . . Led team last year in accuracy from floor and free throw line and averaged better than eleven points per game . . . Has shown considerable strength on defense as well as offense . . . Excellent ball-handler and scoring threat . . . Holds school records for season free throw and field goal percentages.



40—TOMMY KEARNS, Soph, 19, 5-11, 188, Bergenfield, N. J. May be starter after great year as freshman . . . Deceptive ball handler with great eye on set shots and possesses an exciting drive-in shot that is a real crowd-pleaser and produces quick scoring spurts . . . Well built and fast, though not tall, he averaged more than twenty points per game as a freshman . . . Can hit from any position on the floor, and with his body in any position . . . Is even threat from pivot due to his finesse and aggressiveness . . . Has all the characteristics of a great "little man" of the game.



11—KEN ROSEMOND, Soph, 23, 5-8, 150, Hillsboro, N. C. Joined squad at mid-term last year after stint in service . . . Is probably fastest man on squad and is adept ball-handler and scoring threat . . . Saw much service with frosh squad even after late start . . . Will add greatly to team's speed and defensive ability . . . Has had wide experience on prep and service teams.

Basketball at U.N.C.

Basketball had its birth at Carolina way back in 1903 with the Tar Heels fielding their first organized team under Dr. R. B. Lawson in 1906. But it wasn't until 1911 that the school undertook the game seriously. In that year "Philly" Ritch and some of his Charlotte buddies won eight games while losing only three. Since 1911 Carolina has had a basketball team every year.

The sport advanced slowly during the early years, however, and it was not until after World War I that the sport came into prominence here. Then under Major Fred Boye the 1921 team won the state championship.

From that year on the progress was rapid. The 1922 five won the Southern Conference championship and the 1923 team annexed the South Atlantic title. It was during these two years that the team was without a coach, although aided mightily by Coaches Bob and Bill Fetzer, whose over-all athletic knowledge kept the Tar Heel basketball affairs in order.

Then came 1924 and a team which gave the University its only undefeated basketball record. The Tar Heels of that season, under the tutelage of Norman Shepard, won 19 regularly scheduled games and four tournament games to win the Southern crown again. This team, captained by Winton Green, was later named national champion by the Helms Foundation and one of its top stars, Jack (Spratt) Cobb was named to the Foundation's Basketball Hall of Fame. Cobb was named two years ago as the 15th to receive such an honor and gives Carolina its second representative, the first being George Glamack of late thirties and early forties fame.

Carolina has had its other great stars in addition to Cobb and Glamack. Both the Carmichaels, Billy and Cart, the latter an All-America star, were superlative players of the 1920's as were such greats as Bill Dodderer, Monk McDonald and brother Sam, Bill Devin, Curtis (Sis) Perry and Carlyle Shepard. They played the slow, possession-type ball of the time, but they were accomplished at that kind of basketball and were skilled marksmen when they shot.

One of the most successful of Carolina coaches was Bo Shepard, brother of Norman and Carlyle, who headed the Tar Heels from 1932-35. He compiled a 69-16 record in that four-year period and his 1935 team had a 23-2 mark. The teams in the thirties were led by the McCachren brothers and a host of other fine players who came here from Charlotte.

The forties found Carolina continuing its success with All-Americas Glamack, Jim Jordan, and John (Hook) Dillon pacing winning teams. The 1946 team was winner of the Eastern NCAA crown and runners-up for the national championship. Ben Carnevale, now of Navy, coached the 1945 and '46 teams, winning 48 while losing 11 of the two years.

After that Tom Scott guided the Tar Heels before the entrance of McGuire, winning an even 100 games while dropping 63. He had two fine years in 1948 and 1949 but his fortunes faded somewhat in the final years of his tenure. He left in 1951 to take a job as coach of the Phillips Oilers, leaving the Carolina stage open for McGuire.

In his first three seasons, McGuire has won 38 games and lost 31 and has put the Tar Heels on a rebuilding road back toward some of their prestige of the middle '40's. Though the 10-11 season last year was the first losing record in McGuire's short but distinguished coaching career, the Tar Heels are expected to blossom out this season into one of the conference's strongest competitors.

About Carolina

Enrollment: 5,000 Men, 1,000 Women.

School Colors: Carolina Blue and White.

Nickname: Tar Heels. Adopted by the State University for its athletic teams because North Carolinians generally are known as Tar Heels. The nickname was applied to the area's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. Tar and turpentine were in abundance in North Carolina at that time. Legend has it that British generals noticed bare-footed natives with tar on their heels and first applied the nickname.

Home Court—Woollen Gymnasium: Completed in 1938, this model structure has a main auditorium which covers more than an acre, accommodates an indoor track which is longer than Madison Square Garden, and four regulation basketball courts. It seats more than 6,000 spectators. However, it is much more than an indoor stadium for intercollegiate athletic contests. Additional facilities form a complete physical education plant which provides year-round sports, exercise, and recreation for the whole student body.

Most free throws scored in one game, 17;
Most free throws attempted in one game, 21;
Most rebounds made in one game, 25 (twice);
Best scoring average for one season, 25.5;
Most free throws scored in one season, 189;
And best rebound average for one season, 11.7.

Coach Frank McGuire, who tutored many outstanding teams at St. John's before coming to Carolina, ranks Rosenbluth as one of the most outstanding players he has ever coached. "He is a very versatile player who can do anything you want him to do on a basketball court," is McGuire's brief but descriptive analysis of Rosenbluth, a junior education student majoring in history.

Freshman Standouts

One of most promising boys on squad.

Gymnastics

Coach William T. Meade

Though only 30 years old, Coach Meade has had a distinguished career in the field of gymnastics and his Carolina teams have shown marked improvement each season.

Meade first became associated with gymnastics at hometown Warren, Pa., High School, where he lettered in the sport four years. While performing with the Warren team, which won the state championship three of the four years he was on the squad, Meade captured the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Tumbling Championship, Parallel Bar Championship, the Wettstone Award as the state's outstanding gymnast and the Allegheny Mountain Association Tumbling title.

Later, at Penn State College, Meade went under the tutelage of former Olympic Coach Gene Wettstone and lettered there four years as the team won the Eastern Intercollegiate Championship three times, the National AAU title twice and the National NCAA championship once. Continuing his fine performances, Meade won the Eastern Intercollegiate Tumbling Championship in '48 and '49, the Allegheny Mountain Tumbling Championship in '46, '47, and '48 and was runner-up in the national collegiate tumbling championship finals in '48.

Since Meade originated gymnastics here in 1949 it has become one of the University's most popular spectator sports.

Prospectus

Carolina's gymnastic team enjoyed its best season since the sport was introduced here in 1949 last year when the team recorded five victories in seven outings. Seven lettermen return from that outstanding team.

Principal newcomers will include William Waddill in the rope climbing event, Al Dodoe on the rope, and Dan Hilliard on the rings. Waddill has already bettered the established conference record in the rope in practice.

The team lost two Southern Intercollegiate champions through graduation in rope climber Bill Rivera and sidehorse performer Gordon Hudson. Pete Brumley, another high scorer, was also lost through graduation.

Pick-Offs

"Cart" Carmichael was Carolina's first All-American (1923-24) . . . Probably the most famous of the Tar Heel All-Americans was George Glamack, Helms "player of the year" in both 1940 and 1941 . . . The most famous Tar Heel non-All American in college was "Bones" McKinney, who earlier played at N. C. State . . . As widely publicized as any player Carolina has turned out was John (Hook) Dillon, member of the 1946 Eastern NCAA champions . . . Carolina's 1951-52 team of any Tar Heel team in history, 100 against Furholds the honor of running up the highest score man in a pre-Christmas game . . .

Wrestling

Coach Sam G. Barnes

The background of Coach Sam G. Barnes is one of wrestling experience in both the coaching and participation phases that stretches back more than 20 years.

He came to UNC in 1951 after compiling an impressive record at VMI. Prior to beginning his coaching career he had wrestled at Oklahoma A&M and in the Olympic trials twice. In '32 he qualified for the Olympic trials by placing third in the national YMCA event in the 134-pound class.

In the fall of '37 he went to VMI, and in eight years his clubs compiled a 41-20-2 record and never finished lower than second in the Southern Conference race. His stay at VMI was interrupted by a five year stint in the Navy.

He holds a B.S. degree from Oklahoma A&M, and an English masters and doctorate from UNC. In addition to his coaching duties, he is a regular member of the English department here. He is married and has two sons.

Prospectus

"We'll be better, with more experience and depth," says an optimistic Coach Sam Barnes about the 1955-56 Carolina wrestling team. The club will be seeking to rebound from a rough season last winter, when it won only one match and lost nine over a tough schedule.

Last year's club began the season with three lettermen and ten sophomores, plus the addition of several boys from last year's strong frosh team, 10-match schedule.

the club should better its record over this season's

The Tar Heel wrestlers lost four boys by graduation, including co-captains Pete McGehee, this year's frosh coach, and Miles Gregory. Others who graduated were Arthur Gregory and Karl Barkley.

One of the outstanding boys on this year's club should be Captain Charles Boyette, a 157-pound junior letterman from Chadbourn, N. C. Heavyweight Roger Dalehite, John Britt and Gene Thompson, are the only seniors on this year's club.

This year's schedule, equally as tough as last year's, opens with the Citadel Dec. 9, and includes such recognized powers as Virginia Military Institute, Virginia Tech, and Maryland.

Barnes is optimistic however, and feels that through the experience gained last year his club will greatly improve over last season's 1-9 record.

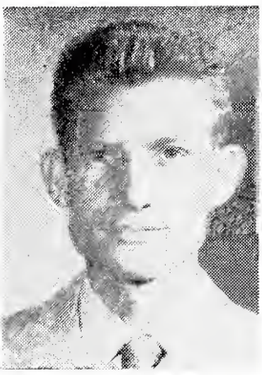
Swimming

ALL-TIME RESULTS: In sixteen years of competitive swimming North Carolina has won 123 dual meets and lost 16 for a winning percentage of .885. The only opponent with an edge over the Tar Heels is Ohio State, winner over Carolina in 1949-50. Both years the Buckeyes were national champions. UNC finished second in the ACC and fifth in the NCAA championships in 1955.

COACH RALPH CASEY



Leslie Ralph Casey is in his 22nd year as a swimming coach. He came to Carolina in 1938 after four years with Goldsboro High school and the Goldsboro Swimming Assn. He was freshman coach in 1939-42 and in the Navy V-5 program 1942-46. In 1947 he was at VMI as track and swimming coach, and returned to UNC as assistant to Dick Jamerson in '48. He succeeded Jamerson as head coach in 1952. Casey is 39 years old, married, and the father of two children. He was married in 1942 to Les Mallard, from his home town of Goldsboro, N. C. His brother Willis is head swimming coach at N. C. State, one of UNC's chief rivals in that sport.

Prospectus

This will be the finest Carolina swimming team in history, according to Coach Ralph Casey. The big man will be junior Charlie Krepp, one of the nation's top backstrokers. He will be backed by Bill Roth, a brilliant sophomore sprinter; Dave McInnis, junior diver; Mac Mahaffy, sophomore breaststroker; Walter Rose, sophomore distance man; and Dick Baker, senior sprinter.

Others who figure to make the starting team are: Maness and Zickgraff in the sprints, Parker and Meekins in the dive, Holmes and Higgins in the distance, and Goad in the breaststroke. Two-thirds of the starters will be sophomores, which means the Tar Heels figure to be even better next year.
